Amy Lau's vision for this guest room located in a Hudson Valley lake house was to balance the interior with the landscape outside. "It's informed by the color and texture found directly through the oversized windows," says Lau. "Like nature, the pieces within are timeless," she says of the vintage mix, which includes a Muriel Coleman table lamp along with headboards and a chest by Paul McCobb that "provide the room with an air of restrained elegance and simplicity," she says.
