

“An energetic fusion of color and design-driven furnishings enhances and enriches an ever-evolving gallery of the client’s inspiring art collection. Those works take center stage among vintage modernist, contemporary and newly commissioned bespoke pieces in this updated prewar family residence on New York’s Park Avenue.”

The bold mid-century furnishings in the living room of a Manhattan triplex — including red Ico Parisi armchairs from Bernd Goeckler Antiques and Jorge Lizarazo's Amazonia rug from Cristina Grajales Gallery — rival the space's impressive and brightly hued contemporary art. Photo by Jason Schmidt
