Evoking a beating heart or a flower, this ring is rooted in the natural world. Pomp drew inspiration from the slot canyons of Utah, while Lau took cues from Jean Arp and Georgia O'Keeffe's organic artworks. At the centre of the design is a piece of rose quartz that is enveloped and divided by a gold band resembling a flowing river.

Amy Lau Design

New York-based interior designer Lau specialises in the creation of inviting spaces and sophisticated interiors featuring a variety of natural materials. She was the co-founder of Design.05, the forerunner of the Design Miami fair. amylaodesign.com

John Pomp

Pomp's Philadelphia studio creates handcrafted furniture and lighting inspired by the beauty of the natural world, using four key materials: glass (which Pomp has been making for 25 years), metal, wood and leather. johnpomp.com
